Would you like to Train others in your Organisation to use Talking Mats?

The Accredited Course teaches you how to train people to use Talking Mats. It focuses on how to provide a constructive framework to allow people to learn from their films, how to manage group dynamics, updates on the latest Talking Mats research and how to answer those frequently asked questions. This is a highly reflective course.

To apply for the accredited training applicants need to:

- Submit a film of your use of Talking Mats to be used during the course

Provide evidence that:

- they are trained and experienced in the use of Talking Mats (3 example reports)
- they have a high level knowledge of language and communication development
- they have good presentation skills
- they have an understanding of Talking Mats research

Please note that each participant has to complete the application process before being accepted onto the course.

Things you should know:

- This is an assessed course.
- Numbers will be limited to allow for quality discussion
- On successful completion of this course, trainers will be permitted to run Talking Mats training courses within their organisations at a reasonable rate.
- You will receive all the resources required to deliver the course with your training— including access to the digital resource.
- You will be supported in developing your Talking Mats training skills
- The year after qualification an annual charge applies to maintain your licence
- You will be trained to run the 2 part Talking Mats Course. The course runs over two half days - each participant producing a film of a Talking Mat to share in the second session
